Dear Friends,

Sitting here on our deck in Gene's garden, sipping mango tea, I am reminded that, on April 30, 2000, Pope St. John Paul declared that the second Sunday of Easter would forever be "Divine Mercy Sunday". That day is today. Jesus in his conversations with a simple peasant girl who lived in Poland, Sister Faustina Kowalska (now St. Faustina, Apostle of Mercy) asked her to "tell the whole world about My inconceivable Mercy."

In his pastoral letter, Evangelii Gaudium ("The Joy of the Gospel"), Pope Francis wrote "The Church must be a place of mercy freely given, where everyone can feel welcomed, loved, forgiven and encouraged to live the good life of the Gospel." On March 13, he explicitly invited all of us to take up his papacy's central message of compassion and pardon. Saying he has "thought often about how the Church can make more evident its mission of being a witness of mercy," the pope announced a new Jubilee Year during a Lenten penitential service in St. Peter's Basilica. "I am convinced that the whole church -- that has much need to receive mercy because we are sinners -- will find in this jubilee the joy to rediscover and render fruitful the mercy of God, with which we are all called to give consolation to every man and woman of our time," Francis said in announcing the year. It begins on Dec. 8, the feast of Mary's Immaculate Conception. "With God as its center, the Church's mission is to be a witness to God's mercy. Let us not forget that God pardons and God pardons always. Let us never tire of asking for forgiveness."

Deacon John Meyer
