A Real King

In our modern world Kings and Queens don't have much real power. They are symbolic rulers of their countries and often have more impact as tourist attractions rather than political rulers. Even so, we often show them great respect for their positions.

Jesus, on the other hand, is a real king. His kingdom is a universal one and has no boundaries. It resides in the heart of all who believe and confess that Jesus is Son of God and Savior.

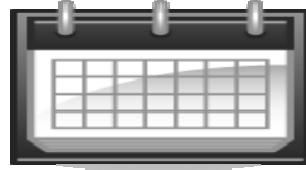

We show our respect for our King not only in faith and prayer, but in the good works we perform in His name. As Jesus said "whatsoever you do for the least of my people, you do it for me". Jesus' kingdom is not enforced by army or wealth but by all those who believe in him.

As the old prayer for the Stations of the Cross says: "We adore you Christ and we praise you for by your holy cross you have redeemed the world".

Father John Greene
